

Sorority as an Instrument of Equality in Private International Law

18 December 2024, 12:30 - 13:30 Hybrid Event

Abstract

Gender perspective in Private International Law can be claimed through the so-called “sorority”: solidarity between women against sexual discrimination. Sorority as an instrument of equal rights. Private International Law can become an ethical tool to fight for solidarity and against such phenomena as misogyny and sexism, among others. Several topics such as the application of Islamic law by some national authorities, child abduction in cases of gender violence or transnational surrogacy, among others, show how this discipline can be an instrument to promote equal rights for women and how sorority can reinforce this equality. So, there is a reciprocal influence between all of them.

Biography of the speaker

Rosario Espinosa Calabuig is Professor of Private International Law at the University of Valencia. Her research focus on several issues of international family law (child abduction, adoption, gender) as well as international trade law (maritime transport, arrest of ships, unfair competition). She is the author of books and articles on the aforementioned topics, as well as co-author of books and manuals published inside and outside Spain (Europe and Latin America). Professor Espinosa Calabuig is an active member of numerous interdisciplinary research groups and networks, national and international and she is currently Executive Director of the Revista General de Derecho Europeo

This lecture is part of the Gender Lecture Series organized by Prof. Elisa Fornalé as part of the HEurope HRJust (States' practice of human rights justification: a study in civil society engagement and human rights through the lens of gender and intersectionality) and the SNF funded project GEM (Gender Equality in the Mirror) housed at the WTI, University of Bern.

All previous lectures are available at: <https://hrjust-intersect-observatory.eu/gender-intersectionality/#webinar-series>

Participation is open to the public and free of charge. The event will be held at the Anna Nussbaum Auditorium of the World Trade Institute, at Hallerstrasse 6, 3012 Bern. It will be possible to attend it remotely via Zoom. Enter Zoom with this LINK

For further information please email Dr. Nicolò Alessi (nicolo.alessi2@unibe.ch)